I actually looked into making a version for Fireboard but go busy busy busy. I will take a peek at that again this sunday. I am assuming that Fireboard as a method for managing avatars since you do not use CB, since most forums do support this. The biggest issue would be learning how to make a Firebird plugin in general.

However I will say that in only takes three minutes to install CB, then you have that available for all its glory.

I will get back to you on this late weekend.
