
How To Fix Stuck Loading...

Posted by brian_williford - 2007/08/12 17:16

View your page source Make sure the mootools.v1.11.js file is included in your template. You can not disable this if you don't have a fully loaded mootools js file in place. The one that comes with yootheme templates does not have all the needed functions.

This file is needed to do the Ajax calls even it you plan to set effects to none.

```
<script src="/modules/mod_moolet_online/js/mootools.v1.11.js" type="text/javascript"></script>
```

Post edited by: brian_williford, at: 2007/08/12 17:17

Post edited by: brian_williford, at: 2007/08/12 17:18

Re:How To Fix Stuck Loading...

Posted by cotyrotheryy - 2007/11/22 12:42

The source code is cut off at the end for me.

Re:How To Fix Stuck Loading...

Posted by daobydesign - 2007/11/25 18:04

Hey Brian, the boardcode for code seems to be squishing your post above outside of the viewable area - ditto the textbox I'm typing this in - this is in Firefox on a PC.

Regardless, hardcoding a JS call into my template isn't my problem - but I'm still stuck with these "Loading..." screens.

I've tried everything, and I'm certain the mootools (v1.11) script is being loaded. However, it still dies on me.

From Firebug I am told that there is a GET error here:

```
http://www.lostlaowai.com/modules/mod_moolet_online/mod_moolet_online.inc.php?moolet_modules_path=http://www.lostlaowai.com/modules/mod_moolet_online&moolet_language_path=modules/mod_moolet_online/language/english.php&user_limit=8&aspect_ratio=v&name_link=1&order_by=0&format&avatar_width=40&avatar_height=50&avatar_noimage=components/com_comprofiler/plugin/language/default_language/images/nophoto.jpg&nobody_text=Nobody&show_total_members=&refresh_secs=30&away_fade=1&show_away_text=1&away_text=(away)&away_secs=300&members_word=member(s)&guests_word=guest(s)&item_format=1&show_total=1&show_today=2&show_week=2&show_month=2&show_last=1
```

I've also switched it to POST in the backend, and it gives me the same error. The error itself is a 500 Internal Server Error (as reported by Firebug).

These mods look fantastic on here, and I've had some other mootools effects in use on my site and love 'em (currently disabled to help debug this problem)... any advice you can give on what might be the problem is much appreciated.

The site, if you care to look, is www.lostlaowai.com.

Regards,
Ryan

Re:How To Fix Stuck Loading...

Posted by romoco1 - 2007/12/22 17:47

For some reason half of the page is gone here.
I can't get the load screen to go away.
please help

=====

Re:How To Fix Stuck Loading...

Posted by aston_spindley - 2007/12/22 18:07

Hello,
did you read the "Read me before you post"?
You need to upload an avatar to get free support and send a url to a page that has the moolet published

thanks

Re:How To Fix Stuck Loading...

Posted by romoco1 - 2007/12/22 18:50

Sorry:blush:

www.micksgames.com

hope this is better ;)

Re:How To Fix Stuck Loading...

Posted by romoco1 - 2007/12/22 18:52

sorry its www.micksgames.com/index/forgot that I changed it

Re:How To Fix Stuck Loading...

Posted by brian_williford - 2007/12/23 00:51

There was no mootools 1.1 script on your template, I would trun that in in the moolet settings then your site is in subdirectory. I would add that to the moolet setting only if the above does not work
