AjayC ,

This was a complete custom job we did ourselves. It involves some fairly good knowledge of Mootools and CSS. One would need to create a series of Ploplets and target the div names of the fireboard headers. These headers will be different for every site.

I would visit ploplets.com for some examples of mootools chaining. You can download the code here.

Then you would need to view source of your fireboard to get the title area id names to target.

Good Luck!
