

---

Loading

Posted by miloskorac - 2007/11/30 16:12

---

I have your web site loading for ever, but visible in Firefox. In forums, when I want to submit a replay....

Some administrator told me that your modules are not made up for IE?

Is that why is an error message by loading your first page in IE?

Also by adding your google moolet on my page, IE was responding the same.

How it is possible to Not to Have Error Message by loading your modules in IE? It seems so unprofessional, so the use for the moolets would be for some kids hack porno sites, not for something serious...

I have seen this issue with error of loading in IE on misterestate.com also, are you related with them or coming from GErmany?

Why is that with these errors and how it is possible to take it out?

p.s. please dont give me some childish offended short answer.

Milos Korac

=====

Re>Loading

Posted by miloskorac - 2007/11/30 16:18

---

Why are you using moto:

Be the first on your block to narcotize yourself with these quality product offerings!

Do you think that its a good idea to have a word narcotize in the head, and how that can affect young clients?

I do not understand what is the use of draggable moolet at all?

If a design of moolet page is Web 2.0 Spectacular , why there is incompatibility with IE?

Milos

With so many questions

=====